THE PROPERTY

Description

Jelly Hollow is an absolutely charming Grade II Listed cottage with 16th-century origins and later 18th and 20th-century extensions. The use of traditional vernacular construction details dominates with an exposed timber frame, whitewashed rendered infilling, and beautifully restored sandstone elevations. Internally, the cottage has a great deal of character with wonderful honey-coloured beams, fine open fireplaces, and natural stone flooring throughout the ground floor incorporating underfloor heating. Hand-crafted English oak leaf light windows throughout draw in the views across the gardens and surrounding hillsides. An abundance of galletted oak doors leading to all the principal rooms complements this stylish, characterful home.

Our clients purchased the cottage in 2021 and have undertaken several enhancements such as the installation of a new luxury "Smallbone" kitchen, a new roof, a brand new Oak-framed double-width and length car port, a newly converted one-bedroom self-contained annex with shower room and fitted kitchen and sun deck, plus many other tech-based improvements. To what is already a beautifully refurbished cottage. For a property of this age, it is surprisingly light with a practical, well-flowing layout and lovely views from all rooms.

The main entrance is via a wonderful oak-framed, pitched porch and panel-glazed door. The reception hallway leads to the main reception and hosts a walk-in utility room with plenty of cabinets and space for your appliances. Also accessed from the hall is a cloakroom with a vintage French vanity stand and basin. Nine-million-year-old fossils are seen throughout the marble surrounds. A truly decadent cloakroom indeed!

The ground floor offers great entertaining space and features a splendid bespoke open-plan kitchen/ breakfast room. "Smallbone of Devises" was tasked with creating an opulent yet practical space, whilst retaining the charm and character of this stunning country home. The "Falcon" range was decided upon with muted soft tones in a shaker style. A white quartz worksurface with gentle veining offers plenty of preparation area and gives the room a wonderful linear feel. Two tall eye-level units provide a hidden ladder cupboard and storage solution, and the integration of a full-height fridge/ freezer unit and dishwasher all add to the creative space and practical use this stunning kitchen offers. This amazing space oozes sophistication and class, all with stunning views across the beautiful garden terraces and the South Downs. Adjoining the kitchen area is a charming dining area separated only by the original vertical wall beams, allowing the light and space to be shared between the two rooms.

A truly opulent drawing room with a rich interior design creates a warm and cosy principal reception room centered by a large inglenook fireplace with clever lighting showcasing the stone wall detail and the old bread oven. The family room is set up for a more informal feel, whether that is enjoying a movie with the inbuilt surround system or perhaps chatting with friends whilst dappled light floods through from the roof windows. With an exposed stone wall and vaulted ceiling, this is a cleverly designed room filled with interest.

Location

Set in the heart of Surrey's rolling hills, Jelly Hollow offers the ideal combination of countryside living and easy access to the capital. Nestled amongst the wooded hillside of Winterfold Heath and Hurtmore Common, the scenic villages of Ewhurst and Sere are a short drive away, while Cranleigh and Guildford - both providing a range of shopping and leisure opportunities - are located four and ten miles away respectively, with the latter offering train services to London in less than 40 minutes.

Jelly Hollow is in easy reach of the A3, enabling access to Heathrow and Gatwick airports for international travellers, the south coast of England and the wider motorway network. The area is well known for its renowned schools, including Charterhouse, St Catherine's, Guildford High School for Girls and the Royal Grammar School for boys in Guildford.

The larger village of Cranleigh is about 4 miles away and provides good shopping facilities along its thriving and bustling High Street with supermarkets, banks, chemists, coffee shops, restaurants and many other individual boutique shops and services.

The county town of Guildford is only 12 miles away and is a comprehensive retail and commercial center with a mainline station and a fast, regular service to London Waterloo, taking about 35 minutes.

The area is well served by schools, including Charterhouse, Cranmore, Cranleigh, Duke of Kent, Farlington, Penntorpe, St. Catherine's in Bramley, St. Teresa's in Effingham, the Royal Grammar School, Guildford and Guildford High School for Girls.
